

SPIDER "Self titled Demo"

Reviews

September 8th, 2005

"the soft, delicate quality of her voice make for some of the most aesthetically pleasing tunes of the day...an intimate look at lively folk soundscapes that are ubiquitous in full, but so close to your ear one may begin to forget that there is life going on outside of the track list. You may shudder to think that someone actually sat down and created such a beautiful batch of tunes. Highly recommended"

A mysterious aura hangs over this ubiquitous presence on the NY folk scene...nothing short of original, the best of compliments in this industry of copycats. The term alternative blues came to mind as I listened to her edgy beautiful melodies and crafty, cool, electric guitar finger-picking.

Perfect for a Sunday afternoon! I love the way you sing so close to the mic. It makes it sound like you're right next to my ear. A beautiful selection of songs.

Bio

Spider, (Jane Herships), has been playing in NYC extensively since her début in November 04' at the Sidewalk Café's open mic (of Moldy Peaches Anti Folk fame), where she was invited on the spot to have her first true solo performance at the café the following week. Launching an ever growing amount of well received shows including performing live on East Village Radio and participating in Brooklyn's "Domino Sugar Factory's" 4th of July festival with "Vietnam, The Witnesses, and Bad Wizard," her roster of playing alongside great artists continues to grow, sharing bills with Entrance, Diane Cluck, Arbouretum, TK Webb, and Mike Wexler to name a few.

Other projects include "Magic Star" a band collaborating with world renowned artist and fashion designer Susan Cianciolo, which recently played in The Netherlands at Sittard's Museum for contemporary Art, and "The Burners" a lady rock duo with fashion photographer KT Auleta.

Jane currently resides in Williamsburg, Brooklyn.
